EMBROIDERIES

At Half Price and Thereabouts.

The sale of 5,000 pieces of Embroideries launched this morning is the greatest in point of values and fine qualities we have ever held. We secured the entire stock the Lloyd L. Jackson Company imported this season-and paid a very low cash figure for it. This firm is retiring from business-and made the deepest concessions to promptly settle their affairs.

CLOSES WITH BANQUET.

Tri-Province Convention of

Chi Fraternity at an End. The close of the tri-province convention of the Sigma Chi Fraternity was marked by a banquet at Rauscher's on Saturday evening. All of the delegates to the meeting and many of the members of the fraternity who were not delegates were present to partake of the feast and to inculge in the spice of repartee and sparkle of wit that went round the board. The occasion was one that will be long remembered by the members as a red letter night in the history of the association. Acting as toastmaster J. Holdsworth Gor don introduced the speakers, who carried out the parts allotted to them with skill and satisfaction to their friends. "Charac ter and Fraternity" was spoken to by B. H Hinman, who assured the members that the Sigma Chi was the society that typified this phrase. Other toasts were: "Fraternity Extension," responded to by W. H. P. Conk lin; "The White Cross and Its Significance," which was taken care of by A. J. McEl-hone; "Chapter Life," by C. M. Rogers; "Our Fair Allies," by E. P. Hunter; and "Sigma Chi," which had two respondents— Gen. B. P. Runkle and Dr. Robert Farnham, both past grand consuls of the fra

CONGRATULATIONS EXTENDED. Triumphs of Carroll Institute Choral

Society Call for Speeches. Short and appropriate speeches made a pleasant break in the last rehearsal of the Choral Society at Carroll Institute Hall Saturday night. The chorus attendance was large, and the gallery was filled with sustaining members. At recess President William Bruce King congratulated the so ciety on the triumphs of the season, which had begun with serious misgiving. The public had emphatically approved of the proper rendition of the great sacred compositions on Sunday night. The best results of the year, however, were the growth of the chorus in numbers, improvement in volume and tone and creation of enthusiasm for next year's work. At this point Mr. Thomas Gold Alvord of the chorus and editor of its Bulletin called attention to the work of the society's director, Mr. Josef Kaspar, which had made these triumphs possible. He also spoke of the efforts of Mr. De Koven to the same end, and moved the adoption of the resolutions of thanks to Mr. De Koven and

Prof. Kaspar.

The resolutions were adopted by a rising vote amid much applause. Mr. De Koven made a fitting response, thanking the society for its compliment to him, and assuring it of his continued interest in its ambition by the excellence of its own to advance the cause of music in Washing-

The Care of Parkings. To the Editor of The Evening Star:

It is sincerely hoped that every house holder in Washington has read and will profit by the excellent advice contained in your editorial in Saturday's issue of The Star under the head line, "The Duty of All Good Citizens." The development of the parkings, lawns and flower beds by private residents and public care of trees and res ervations are evidences of good taste in any community, and if police protection could be secured against trespass, as it should be, there is but little doubt that every park, lawn and tree space in the city would be fostered by the people and soon become the pride alike of all. In this con-nection it may be asked if the District Commissioners and the superintendent of public buildings and grounds have decided public buildings and grounds have decided the question of removing the ugly parking from New York avenue between 11th and 13th streets, now surrounded by unsightly posts and tangled wire; also if it is possible that the tree spaces through this avenue from 9th to 11th streets may be banked and sodded as they are in front of the public library, thus adding to the "spring beauty of Washington."

RESTORED TO THEIR MOTHER.

Children of Mrs. W. K. Smith Surrendered by Board of Guardians.

The board of children's guardians, which a short time ago took charge of the children of Mrs. W. K. Smith of 414 Albany street northeast, returned them to the mother last Friday. Mrs. Smith states that she went to Philadelphia and left her seventeen-year-old son in charge of one daughter and another son. Three of the younger daughters Mrs. Smith placed in St. Vincent's Academy. She says she sent money to her family on two separate occasions during her absence in Philadelphia. "As soon as my back was turned," said Mrs. Smith in discussing the matter,
"somebody circulated the report that I had deserted my family. It was a ridiculous story, but the board of children's guardians interfered in the matter, took my daughters from St. Vincent's, placed James
